OBITUARIES

Edward Curtis Dell

Edward Curtis Dell, 44, a longtime Center City resident and familiar presence at many city and private social service and AIDS-service organizations, died April 23.

A national certified addictions counselor, Dell retired in 1995 as a supervisor of the Addictive Services Unit of the Philadelphia Adult Probation Department. During his 21 years of service, Dell supervised specialists for psychiatric, drug and alcohol court-stipulated offenders. Among his many accomplishments was the creation of new guidelines for psychiatric, drug and alcohol evaluations and urban treatment facilities.

Dell moved to Philadelphia after receiving a bachelor of science degree in law enforcement and corrections from Penn State in 1973. He received a master's degree in counseling psychology from Temple University in 1977. During his career, Dell

DELL, P. 5

Albert Charles Radzavies

Albert Charles Radzavies, 45, a volunteer for several area AIDS organizations, died April 18 from AIDS complications.

Radzavies volunteered daily at From All Walks of Life, where he organized a very large team, "The Came to Believers," for the 1994 and 1995 AIDS Walks that raised

RADZAVIES, P. 5

HIV Medicine and Research

John L. Turner, MD

Robert S. Rudenstein, MD

Norma E. Muurahainen, MD, PhD

Joseph P. Ondercin, PA-C

Lori A. Walton, PA-C

Michael L. Huber, PA-C

Kevin J. McKone, BSN, RN

Thomas L. Fogle, Office Manager

HIV Medicine

Metabolism/Nutrition

Internal Medicine

215.790.6030

Suite 305 The Graduate Hospital 1740 South Street Philadelphia, PA 19146